Cross-cutting recommendations

Hans Keune (Belgian Biodiversity Platform, INBO, University of Antwerp),

Laetitia Lempereur (Federal Public Service Health, Food Chain Safety and Environment - BEOH)

Policy recommendations

Facilitate one integrated One Health coordination across ministries & regional competences

Embed One Health as a principle in law and policy instruments. E.g. in Strategic & Environmental Impact Assessment & in the Aarhus Convention.

In One Health attention should be equally dedicated to respecting and improving human, animal and plant health, and the environment.

Science recommendations

Operationalize & support transdisciplinary practice oriented One Health science, involving diverse scientific disciplines and societal groups

Operationalize & support pro-active One Health science; e.g. regarding prevention & neglected issues in health, agriculture, biodiversity, environment, etc.

Operationalize & support One Health data sharing between scientists

Include a holistic One Health approach in the curricula

Facilitate inter university One Health education

Society recommendations

Operationalize & support One Health in spatial planning and preventative healthcare

Operationalize & support One Health literacy (education, media, involvement of target groups, communication of concrete examples of how system changes come together (flooding/nature based solutions), long life learning)

Harness fair treatment of vulnerable groups in the framework of One Health, aim at decreasing health inequalities

Operationalize & support One Health bottom up approaches – co-creation

Belgian One Health network (BEOH) recommendations

Initiate a Belgian One Health knowledge centre as part of

Organize capacity commitments from universities and knowledge institutes for BEOH
